and leave them behind in the Himalayas, forever

Ride. Shoot. Edit.

Adventure Becomes Advertising
The Himalayas as studio

The Mountain Is the Studio

Film schools teach cinematography inside studios. This competition takes it out onto a mountain road at 7am with a motorcycle beneath you, the Himalayas ahead, and a brand brief in your pocket.

Each participant receives a motorcycle, a route, and a creative brief from the brand partner. From sunrise, they have until 10am the next morning to ride, shoot, edit, and deliver a complete short film.

No sets. No controlled conditions. No manufactured moments.

Just the filmmaker, the road, and whatever the Himalayas reveal.

Because the best advertising feels honest.

And the Himalayas never needed to pretend.

How It Works

THE BRIEF

Each filmmaker receives a motorcycle, a route through the Himalayas and a creative brief from the brand partner.

THE RIDE

Participants ride their assigned route, finding landscapes, people, moments and stories along the way.

THE SHOOT

From sunrise, cameras roll. No sets. No controlled studio. Just the filmmaker, the motorcycle and the Himalayas reveal.

THE SCREENING

Final films premiere publicly on the last evening of HIFAF, before the audience and jury.

ASSET BEYOND THE FESTIVAL

The strongest films become original branded storytelling assets extending beyond the festival.

18 hours
